Professionalism: A Core Value in Dentistry
Presented by Phyllis L. Beemsterboer MS Ed.D FACD

Professionalism is acknowledged as critical in the delivery of oral health care and the practice of dentistry. Where ethics provides the reflective process for evaluating situations and determining courses of actions, professionalism is the manifestation of those actions. This term is often used, but many times means different things to different people. Professionalism is more than just overt action, behavior or dress. Professionalism is a shared belief system that must be accepted among those practicing the science and art of healing. This ideology delineates the important knowledge, competencies and values incumbent of a profession’s members in organizing and delivering health care to the society it serves. This lecture will work to define professionalism, distinguish it from ethics and review the basis for it as an essential attribute of professional life.

Learning Objectives
• Explore professionalism and distinguish it from ethics and legal concepts.
• Describe the basis for professionalism as a distinct value of health care providers.
• Analyze and discuss cases that demonstrate the integration of professionalism in health care practice.

Phyllis L. Beemsterboer MS Ed.D FACD is Professor and former Associate Dean for Academic Affairs in the School of Dentistry at Oregon Health & Science University in Portland, Oregon. She is an associate director in the Center for Ethics in Health Care at OHSU and a faculty member in Internal Medicine in the School of Medicine.

ABOUT THE LASKIN LECTURESHIP
Dr. Daniel M. Laskin received his DDS degree from Indiana University School of Dentistry and his MS degree in oral surgery from the University of Illinois. Dr. Laskin demonstrated his commitment to both the profession and the public in establishing the Lectureship in Professional Ethics that now bears his name at Indiana University School of Dentistry.

The Laskin lecturers are selected by virtue of their impact on dentistry, in particular their dedication to elucidate and enhance professionalism and the professional obligations of dentistry. We have achieved this in the selection of our lecturers since the lectureship’s inception in 2007.
